Subject: General Points to Register About EA Invocation

The invocation of the Emergencies Act and its accompanying orders will provide greater powers and authorities to enforce the law and prevent unlawful behaviour.
The orders that designate protected places, prohibit public assemblies that lead to violence, and direct persons to deliver services all support the efforts of law enforcement to take control.
They will protect our critical infrastructure and vital cross-border trade links, allow more decisive action to restore order and support concrete enforcement action.
All law enforcement authorities can use these powers, and the RCMP will be better positioned to support local law enforcement.
Where blockades exist, we will be able to ensure the compliance of tow truck companies in their removal.
In addition, we are working closely with our US partners to ensure that people who participate in unlawful protests will bear consequences in terms of their ability to enter the US, while US citizens will bear the same in terms of entering Canada.
